

Shriners do a little clowning around at Oceanfront

CHAD RAY PHOTOS

Drum and bugle corps, mounted patrols and motorized units entertained crowds along Atlantic Avenue on Sept. 10 for the annual Shriners parade.

"We really like coming out here to see the parade," said Richard Boone, who brought his son, Jack. Boone and his son are pictured below.

"I like the little cars they drive!" exclaimed Jack.

Shriners fundraising provides free care to children with burn injuries or orthopedic problems.

Members of the Khe-dive Shriners Corvettes Unit of Chesapeake brought their miniature 1975 replicas. Capable of up to 45 mph, the cars receive upgrades during their decades of service - disc brakes, fresh paint, modified exhaust and more.
